

iPad Tips & Tricks – Quit Multitasking Apps

While having Apps open in the Multitasking Bar can be handy, some of them can drain the battery.

To close apps in the Multitasking Bar, double tap the Home button to bring it up. Tap and hold on any app icon in the bar until they start to shake.

Now tap on the small minus symbol that has appeared on the app icon. This closes the app and stops any processes it was using. Doing this can also help restart apps if they seem unresponsive or have a problem. Closing Apps that are not in use can also assist with battery life.
